USMC FILBE

Assault Pack

This assault pack is almost as tough as the Marine it was issued to. This pack is loaded with many extra features a typical military assault pack would not have. Featuring adjustable padded, contoured shoulder straps, 2-way zippers, padded foam back, sternum strap and waist belt, and carry handle. One large main compartment and one smaller outside compartment. Both feature plenty of organizational pockets. The real evidence that this pack was overengineered: There are backup metal shoulder strap buckles just in case the main straps or buckles fail. MOLLE compatible for attaching additional pouches. The fact that these packs saw a tour and are still in usable condition really says a lot about the durability. These packs are dirty and will need a good clean up, but do not let that stop you from owning one of the best military assault packs ever produced.

Color: Coyote. Manufactured by Eagle Industries.

Vintage Polish Military Wool Blanket

Please read this description very carefully, as each blanket is stunningly unique and different! The pictures shown are just a few examples of the different variations of this blanket.

These Cold War Era blankets are both bold and stunningly beautiful.

Thick and heavy, the blankets are an ideal blend of 50% wool and 50% polyester.

They are easily some of the most interesting and unique blankets we have ever come across. While digging through warehouses in Europe, we were quite lucky to find such a hidden gem. The challenge is that almost every blanket is different! Faced with this dilemma of so many different patterns we decided to sell them by color. This means you pick one color and your blanket will contain at least that one color. Choose: Brown or Orange. That does not mean it will be the only color of the blanket, that simply means it will be sure to have the color you picked represented. The patterns also vary so more than likely each blanket you order will be different. These blankets all measure approximately 60" x 80". Edges of the blankets may also vary from whip stitching to hemmed. Unused Condition.

"Life was obviously good in the officers mess of the Regia Aeronautica. These are fine paste porcelain made by Richard Ginori, Italy's highest-end manufacturer (think Wedgewood of Italy). The crowned eagle clutching prop seems to date the design to the 1930s. It certainly would have been obsolete after 1946, when Italy became a republic. A fancy addition to the keto breakfast table."

NATO Entrenching Tool/Tri-Fold Shovel

Also commonly known as the Tri-Fold Shovel or E-tool. Made to the same specifications as the U.S. G.I. Entrenching Shovel this NATO model is OD, while the U.S. one is painted black. This is a favorite used not only by military men all over the world, but is also known as the tool of choice among campers, hikers, survivalists, and even gardeners. Weighing under 3 pounds this sturdy steel shovel can not only dig a trench, it can chop a root, and is equipped with 2 serrated edges for sawing and slicing. These shovels are known as a tri-fold shovel because they fold into three sections which can be freely positioned for different applications, or folded into its own rubberized compact case. This particular shovel was a NATO tool, they were manufactured for the Bundeswehr translated as the German Armed Forces. The shovel indicates this by the "BUND" stamped on the handle. Overall length is approximately 23". These are all Used Nice Condition shovels. NOTICE: These are not cheaply made reproductions. These are rugged dependable shovels made to handle hard work.

U.S. G.I. Next Generation Improved Entrenching Tool

This next gen e-tool won its government contract through rigorous testing in combat by the United States Marine Corps. This more modern version of the familiar e-tool has benefited from clever design improvements that make it more durable and lighter weight. Designed to be used as a straight shovel, or with the blade locked at 90 degrees as a pick-hoe. The few important key design improvements are: the ergonomically improved handle is now made of lightweight reinforced fiberglass, the shaft is now reinforced anodized extruded aluminum and the blade is made of hardened carbon steel. The familiar tightening nut has moved next to the handle instead of on the blade end keeping operation easier and the tool cleaner. Weighs 2.2 lbs.

Unused Condition in original manufacturer's box. NATO Approved. Blade made in Finland by Fiskars. Assembled in USA by Gerber Legendary Blades.

"I was looking for this kit a few years back and you couldn't find them anywhere. They were all sold out. When I saw that Coleman's had them in stock I jumped on it. Especially since they were selling them cheaper than anywhere else. I ordered two and both were dated June 1992. These are packaged in heavy waterproof packaging. I opened one and everything was there as packaged in pristine condition. The jewel of the kit is the American made Camillus stainless steel "demo" knife dated 1991. Nothing fancy about this multitool knife except for the fact that they are hard to find for sale and have now been replaced by a Victorinox M grip Trekker with black tools. ★★★★★ 5 STAR RATED

"Somewhat different from my time in the military. I like the rubberized hilt and the scabbard with the clip to help retain the knife if not snapped in. the straps and snaps on the back of the scabbard make it easy to attach to pretty much anything being worn. The blade was good and sharp and has already been well used. Definitely give it 5 stars."

Italian Military M4 Bayonet for the M1 Carbine

The M4 Bayonet Knife was first adopted in 1944 for use with the .30 caliber M1 Carbine. Many countries produced their own M4 bayonets to use on the iconic M1 Carbine. The US Military provided M1 Carbines to Italy in the 1950s and 1960s under what was called the Military Assistance Program. M1 Carbine rifles were used in Italy well into the 1990s. The Italian Military had to have a bayonet for the M1 and ended up producing these excellent M4 bayonets. Blade measures 6 1/2". Hand crafted, wooden grip. Bayonets are dated in the late 1950's and have the Arsenale Esercito Torino (Turin Army Arsenal) maker stamp. Most blades appear to be Unused. The unique scabbards appear to have only slight use or storage wear and come with the original web belt hanger. This is a very rare collectible.

Swedish Military Field Phone, Ericsson

FIENDE LYSSNAR, or in English, The enemy is listening! These field phones made by Ericsson were used in the field to relay orders to the front lines.

Powered by D batteries. These days, children

growing up would not even have the slightest idea how to use such a device. How cool would it be to string one of these from your children's club house to your house? Vintage phones make great collectibles but when functional they are great for communication between buildings on a farm or remote areas. We do not warrant the functionality of these phones, however they are a simple device that can be made operational with limited electrical experience or a quick internet search.
